Based in the Nottinghamshire area of England, Gary has been writing and performing professionally for 10 years. He has built up a flourishing fan base, and a reputation as a skilled and mature song writer.

Early influences vary widely, mainly including rock and country. After learning to play the guitar at 15, an apprenticeship in a flourishing local music scene saw him initially playing bass in rock bands. He quickly progressed and established himself as a talented and well respected writer and performer.

He currently maintains a busy live schedule with gigs in all areas of the country, performing solo or with various musical partners. He has achieved regular airplay on a variety of radio shows around the country and has performed live on the air on many occasions. His material is always well received by the press and consistently receives reviews full of praise.
